Club Bling!

Parents, help teens learn about good financial management by opening a Club Bling account with them. PECU waives the new member fee for these accounts and it takes just a $10 deposit to open a Club Bling savings account. Young adults age 13 up to 18 are eligible to join. Every new member gets a savings account. In addition, you can discuss various account options with your teen and decide what is right for your family. The options include a Club Bling Free Checking Account (joint with parents), Debit Card (joint with parents), No Annual Fee MasterCard (joint with parents), e-Alerts, e-Statements and Overdraft options. Again, you decide what options best fit your family's needs. It's great to know Club Bling can help teens learn the same sound financial decisions you have made by becoming a credit union member.

An important early lesson to teach your teen is the difference between credit unions and banks. Credit unions have less fees, better credit card rates, lower loan rates and generally pay higher interest on savings. Like banks, credit unions are insured by the full faith and credit of the U.S. government. Credit unions, however, are not-for-profits that exist to help people. In fact, credit unions, are owned by the members that join them. Members have a voice and vote in the way the credit union is run. Try walking into any bank and asking if you can vote on how they run it. They would look at you like you were crazy. Bottom line, banks exist to earn money for their stockholders. You are not a person to a bank, you are a potential profit center. They try to get as many fees from you as possible. That's not very fun, is it?

Today's teens are exposed to more media and outside influences than any generation before them. That means there are many influences on what your teen learns about using money. With Club Bling, you can help educate them about money in a fun way. Simply fill out the Account Application herein and return it to PECU to get started. Rest assured, your teen's savings are federally insured to at least $250,000 by the full faith and credit of the U.S. Government through the NCUA (National Credit Union Administration). In addition, PECU gives you an additional $250,000 of coverage.

If you have questions about the Club Bling account, please call 512-474-1955 or write to Public Employees Credit Union, P.O. Box 2205, Austin, Texas 78768-2205.
